1. The heavy immovable 40-ton crane in the port of Constanta called "Titan" recently collapsed under a 10-ton load. The crane is being dismantled and will be shipped to Galati for repairs. It is estimated that it will take at least six months before it is put into service again.
2. The security regulations in Constanta have recently been tightened. Only six men are allowed ashore from each visiting ship including the ships from satellite countries. Even the harbor pilot is accompanied by a police official.
